Graduate in Psychology & Philosophy

Hi! I'm Ben, 24, a graduate of Otago in psychology and philosophy. My work experience is within a major Auckland hospital as an orderly during a pre-uni gap year, helping my people out on their lifestyle block (wood-related, gardening and livestock-related work) and sending loads of cvs and covering letters in the autumn of the past year. Obviously I am still looking - mainly for genuine work that is close to somewhere I can rent a room, so I need a wage but mostly an opportunity - in any place or sector of the economy or in any role that allows me to learn more and enjoy my work. I'm cheerful, willing, have a dry sense of humour and am quite trainable (my step-dad says) except that I don't drive, because of environmental concerns. My work experience so far has given me some good customer service skills, deepened my emotional resilience and allowed me to see something of the complex and random nature of human experience up close. I come from a close and supportive family environment and I am aware of the importance of discretion, ethical behaviour and self-discipline.

Corporate Travel Consultant seeking her next opportunity

Auckland

I'm young, reliable and enthusiastic. Looking for a full-time opportunity that will allow me to get back out in the work force and add value in your business.

My previous employment has included sole-charge flight attending, retail travel consulting and corporate travel consulting. But Covid-19 has turned that industry upside-down and I'm now excited to be pursuing my next opportunity.

I have a wide range of transferable skills including organisational skills, high attention to detail, relationship building and managing high pressure situations.

I'm highly motivated with a positive attitude and I can't wait to get back out in the workforce.
